Culture of Home

Welcome to Our Service Guide

Welcome to Frank & Ethel's

Frank & Ethel's is more than a business—it's a way of living. Inspired by the enduring charm of sitcom couples and the real-life rhythms of our family, we believe in gathering around good food, shared stories, and the beautiful, unexpected adventures that unfold when people come together.

From microgreens and vintage housewares to creative programs for kids and families, each offering is rooted in connection, sustainability, and everyday culture. We're building a home away from home—one that honors the past, welcomes the present, and makes space for the future with humility, humor, and heart.

From Our Place to Yours

If Frank & Ethel's is the living room—full of laughter, legacy, and shared meals—then Culture of Home is the quiet den tucked just beyond, where stories are preserved and transitions are honored. It's where I, Mallorie Kristoffersen, bring my love of memory-centered design and compassionate organizing to help individuals and families navigate change with clarity and care.

With a background in drama, cultural sustainability, and community facilitation, I've spent years helping people make sense of their spaces and stories. Culture of Home is my invitation to walk with you through life's thresholds—whether you're downsizing, stewarding a loved one's estate, or simply seeking to live more intentionally.

Together, we'll create systems that feel like home. We'll document what matters. We'll make space for what's next.

Hello Partner,

If you said this with an accent, I still hear the theme song to Bonanza stirring me awake Saturday mornings as a kid, so I do too. I was born in the eighties, but the sound of reruns playing from my parents' bedroom let me know it was the weekend. I was never a fan of westerns, so it really let me know I could keep sleeping. That said, the concept of partnership and greeting each other with mutual respect and intentional collaboration is something I value as a greeting today.

Hi, I'm Mallorie Kristoffersen, the "Ethel" of Frank & Ethel's, a family-rooted business that blends storytelling, cultural sustainability, and practical organization to help clients navigate life transitions with clarity and care. As a ninth-generation Howard County native, I have a passion and curiosity for fostering local knowledge and grew up with a global perspective shaped by my family, community, and cultural experiences. I went on to explore what it means to share space through my studies in acting and theater design at New York University and graduate work in Cultural Sustainability at Goucher College.

My professional journey developed through life and income protection, permanent supportive housing programs, online estate sales, real estate, and creative collaboration at locally family-run furniture design showrooms and creative studios. Throughout each chapter, I've honed the ability to sit with clients through vulnerable conversations and help frame decisions with emotional intelligence and practical strategy.

All of these experiences taught me that transitions aren't just about logistics—they're about honoring stories while creating space for what's next. Whether we're reclaiming a closet, curating a legacy, or transforming a bedroom into a space of healing, everything I do is rooted in one belief: every story deserves space, and every home can hold it with grace.

At Frank & Ethel's, we want our clients to go from saying, "we're making do" to "this is how we do."

Our services at Culture of Home are designed to meet you exactly where you are and support you toward spaces that truly feel like home.

With warmth and partnership,

♥ Mallorie

Our Flexible Approach to Time

We believe good organization happens at the pace of trust, not the speed of efficiency.

Every project is unique, so we work in 4-hour focused windows that respect both the emotional pace of decision-making and practical scheduling needs.

Why do we always propose prices after a discovery consultation?

A container of family photos and a container of old clothes may be the same size, but they require completely different emotional processing time and decision-making support. This is why our proposed prices hold firm regardless of timeline adjustments—we account for the human elements that can't be rushed. We will never provide a full proposal without first conducting a detailed discovery of both your space and your story.

Culture of Home Marketplace

(Optional Add-On)

Thoughtful resale support for items with potential value.

How It Works:

- Offered organically during your organizing project
- Items must be valued at $25+ to qualify
- We photograph, research, and list items on appropriate platforms:
 - Vintage/unique items: Etsy or preferred online marketplace
 - Everyday household goods: Facebook Marketplace, eBay, client choice
- We manage the entire process including buyer communication and coordination
- You receive 70% of final sale price after platform fees (typically 3-13% depending on platform)

This service honors the stories behind your belongings while helping recover value. No guarantees of sale, but a respectful way to find new homes for meaningful items.

Marketplace & Donation Disclaimer

For items that may have significant value (antiques, collections, fine art), we're happy to help you connect with estate sale professionals or auction houses who specialize in appraisal and authentication. We can assist with research and coordination but recommend working directly with certified appraisers for high-value items.

This optional support is available for a fee and designed to help clients begin the process—not to manage it in full. It protects both parties while honoring the potential value of heirlooms and collectibles.

Extended Services

We're not here to cut and run. We want your home to work for you—and sometimes that means giving you space to live with the changes, reflect, and adjust. Life evolves, and so do our needs. These extended services honor that truth, offering support as you settle in, shift perspectives, or simply change your mind.

Maintenance Check-Ins

Included with select packages to ensure your space continues to serve you well:

- Packed Memories, Home Harmony Packages:
 - One-week and one-month follow-up check-ins
 - Light touch support to revisit systems, answer questions, and adjust as needed
- The Whole Story Legacy Package:
 - Ongoing check-ins built into the process
 - Collaborative support throughout the project's arc—from first sort to final placement

These check-ins are designed to offer gentle accountability, emotional clarity, and practical tweaks—because organizing isn't just about stuff. It's about how we live.

Additional Maintenance Check-ins - $100 per visit

- System fine-tuning and adjustment follow-up visits
- Additional support as life changes

Moving Support Services - Custom pricing

- Pre-move decluttering and organization
- Unpacking and organizing in new home
- Coordination with moving companies

Together, we'll ensure your spaces serve not just your current needs, but the life you're still creating—because the best organizing systems are the ones that grow and change with you, just like the stories they hold.
